They'll skip the cafe when you serve these favorites in school!

Get students excited about the nutrition of milk by introducing these two enticing beverage options. There's something for everyone here, with the comforting warmup of HOT CHOCOLATE MILK and the doubly tasty options of either cold or hot MOOLATTES.

Both offerings can have a positive impact on your menus. Not only will they directly boost milk consumption, but they'll also increase overall meal participation. These rich flavors have the power to attract students who might not have shown up for mealtime at all.

So how do you get started? For HOT CHOCOLATE MILK, preparation couldn't be easier. Simply warm up chocolate milk and... that's it!

Special equipment isn't required, but you can choose to serve the HOT CHOCOLATE MILK from an insulated dispenser. With a visit to NutritionConnection.org, you'll find manufacturers with exactly what you need.

For MOOLATTE, you'll enjoy a variety of options for serving it hot or cold. Either way, it's a creamy and delicious treatment of milk with a touch of coffee flavor.

Many schools have had success using a cold brew dispenser. These typically hold about 3 pounds of coffee grounds and yield 3 gallons of coffee. And since you only need 1 part coffee for every 4 parts milk, plus ice, one batch produces a large quantity of MOOLATTES.

That's just one example - MOOLATTE is a flexible offering that can be adjusted to work for any school. It fits into any service model too:

- Grab-and-Go for those busy mornings
- Classroom Delivery to keep students fueled for learning
- In the Cafeteria, alongside regular milk choices

Once your HOT CHOCOLATE MILK or MOOLATTE program is up and running, be sure to spread the word through announcements, flyers, posters and social media posts.
